

10. Extension: Write your own rules!

Scissors-Paper-Rock-Lizard-Spock is boring. Everyone's already playing it! Let's make our own version!

Task 10.1: Ask the user for their moves!

Imagine your own game! Maybe it's called "Cat Mouse Dog", or "Lightning Dragon Wolf Snake Wind"! Pretty much anything you can imagine! Maybe one move always wins! Maybe one always loses!

Here's how we write the game logistics for a few versions of the game:

Draw up your idea for some game logistics here:

| Human Move🧑 | Computer Move💻 | Who Wins?🏆 |
|-----------------|--------------------|----------------|
| scissors        | scissors           |                |
| scissors        | paper              |                |
| scissors        | rock               |                |
| scissors        | lizard             |                |
| scissors        | spock              |                |
| paper           | scissors           |                |
| paper           | paper              |                |
| paper           | rock               |                |
| paper           | lizard             |                |
| paper           | spock              |                |
| rock            | scissors           |                |
| rock            | paper              |                |
| rock            | rock               |                |
| rock            | lizard             |                |
| rock            | spock              |                |
| lizard          | scissors           |                |
| lizard          | paper              |                |
| lizard          | rock               |                |
| lizard          | lizard             |                |
| lizard          | spock              |                |
| spock           | scissors           |                |
| spock           | paper              |                |
| spock           | rock               |                |
| spock           | lizard             |                |
| spock           | spock              |                |

